GOINGS ON. . . .

The country music group with the Bob Poage bus caravan here Friday afternoon reminds of music. . . .and things of immediate future.

That would be Folk Fete 9 and 10 in Cameron which include another fiddlers contest as well as all kinds of folk dance, music and ethnic attractions as well as expanded art, sculpture and craft attractions.

And then a note about the Dallas Symphony's tentative return for January 16, 1973, surely some time away, but this and even broader base of attraction from Rockdale south through Milam County to Bell County where the Cultural Activities Center and Central Texas Symphony Association are joining the Cameron Chamber in co-sponsor rolls.

Additional endorsement is expected from other Central Texas organizations to make The Dallas Symphony's return a smash success for student concerts and evening performance alike.

DSO general manager Kenneth Meine confirmed the date this week.

And Cameron has something else to anticipate.

NOW-NOW-NOW

The push south by North Vietnamese forces has gone into an area where Lt. Bobby Jones, son of ad manager George Jones, is serving.

With troop withdrawals continuing while U. S. bombing heightens in crescendo, it is difficult to believe the war is winding down.

Patrol Reports County Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 13 accidents on rural highways in Milam County during the month of March, according to Sgt. Simmons, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These 13 accidents have resulted in no deaths and 12 injured for the 3rd month of 1972.

REHEARSING for the UIL concert and sight reading contest at Hillsboro High School April 26. The Yoe High band will be among 13 Class AA bands competing at the annual contest. Last year the band won first division awards in both concert and sight reading.

Rain Dents Area Drouth

A little rain finally fell on Cameron, .27 to be exact, with varying amounts reported in the Milam area. The rain is the first to fall since March 27. It puts only a temporary dent in the drouth that is hampering crop and pasture growth, which are fast approaching the critical stage.

"A good 2 to 3 inch rain is badly needed to put us in good shape," said Bill McCutchen, Milam County ag agent. The small amount of rain that fell Thursday night will "pick up" pastures for a few days, but more is needed for pasture grasses to show normal growth.

Most of the cotton planted in the county is up, with some areas having spotty stands, the same as with grain sorghum, McCutchen said. Some cotton growers are still waiting good rains to plant their crop.

In the Maysfield area some stands of cotton and grain had to be replanted and are still not up.

The failing crops and pastures would recover quickly with a good rain, he said.

Pastures are hurting the most, McCutchen said. "They just aren't growing like they would normally at this time of year." The situation "could hurt us if cattle start moving to the market in bunches like they did last year," he added.

Area Roundup

Medicare Certification Assured

ROCKDALE

Continued Medicare certification for Richards Clinic and Hospital at Rockdale was assured as contractors at the hospital were working to erect fire walls and install a sprinkler system as specified by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. HEW originally posted intent to withdraw Medicare certification at the hospital because of "physical deficiencies." With a new hospital building program planned, owners of the present hospital had hoped the Medicare demands could be postponed and the remodeling and sprinkler costs of about $20,000 be averted.

City Hall Moves To New Spot

GEORGETOWN

Without fanfare, Georgetown City Hall moved from the old fire station building to new quarters on the north side of the town square. The new offices feature more departmentalization and private carpeted offices, with access to the adjoining police and courts building.

School Board Doubles Tuition

BELTON

The Belton school board voted to double tuition for students living outside the Belton school district. This will be $200 per year for students in the 6th through 12 grades, and $190 per year for students in the first through fifth grades. The board chairman said "We feel that transfers should pay their own way, since Belton has a steadily increasing enrollment of our own."

Water Quality Control Studied

CALDWELL

Water quality control was the major item of discussion at the Burleson County Goals meeting held at Caldwell. Discussion centered on what grants were available for sewer services. The cities of Caldwell, Somerville and Snook all have water and sewer needs. A program of education of developers on what requirements of them in regards to water quality control, streets and utilities was suggested.

Trustees Apply For Funds

ROSEBUD

Rosebud-Lott school trustees are making application for the funding of $73,000 for the 1972-73 "Follow Through" program. The program is for grades one through three, and its components involve instruction, health services, nutritional services and social services. Supt. Earl Cook said that only seven Texas schools were funded for the program and only three had been invited to make application for next year's funding.

New School Overcrowded

WACO

Waco school board has authorized a study to help solve overcrowding at the new Waco High School. A redistricting proposal that would more equally distribute enrollment in all high schools was tabled. Waco High was built for 800 to 950 students. More than 900 are enrolled. Enrollment is expected to approach 1,000 next fall.

Woman Fatally Stabbed

HEARNE

Dorothy Toliver, 22, of Hearne was fatally stabbed in the neck and right shoulder Sunday morning at about 11:50. Peace Justice Jack Mathews issued a warrant for the arrest of Billy Powell, 23, who allegedly had been living with the woman. He is still at large.

B-M-F Water System Complete

The contractors pump company turned 254 miles of water line over to the Bell-Milam-Falls Water System Friday, according to W. H. McCormick, president.

McCormick stated that the water line and contract were approved by the Federal Housing Administration as completed.

McCormick said any customer having complaints should call Temple 773-3111 collect for service. The water system carries a one-year warranty.

June 1, 1972 has been set as the deadline for new members. McCormick emphasized that the water corporation is not contacting new members, but that new members should contact some member of the board of directors.

About 220 people are on the waiting list and if they want to join the system, they should contact a director at once. The membership fee, as previously announced, is $100.

Members of the board of directors are V. L. Wallace of Travis, Jack Walzel of Buckholts, Calvin Rauchi of Rogers, and U. L. Pierce of Holland.

One Injured In 2-Car Collision

A two-car collision Thursday at 4 p.m. sent one person to the hospital and resulted in heavy damage to both vehicles.

Injured was Leonard Davis of Caldwell, who sustained head lacerations. He was a passenger in a car driven by Ruben Gurero of Somerville.

The Gurero vehicle was traveling east on 4th St. and collided with a car driven by Robert A. Conners of Cameron. Conners was attempting to turn on 4th from Fannin St.

Star Hall Invites Candidates To Rally

Candidates for public office have all been invited to a political rally at SPJST Seaton Star Hall on Sunday afternoon, April 30.

The rally will begin at 2 p.m. and will be centered around a performance by the SPJST Concert Orchestra. Star Hall is located 8 miles east of Temple on the Rosebud highway, Texas Highway 53.

The rally is not a fund raising event. It is an "effort to permit the candidates, the voters and their families to meet each other on a personal basis in a friendly, fraternal atmosphere," according to Dan F. Balusek, president of SPJST Lodge 47.

The political rally will feature some innovations in that the candidates will be seated at reserved tables surrounding the open dance floor, and reception committee members will bring the people by to meet and visit with each candidate and his family.

"There probably will be very little opportunity for political 'stump speaking' by the candidates," Balusek said. "It is expected that each candidate will be introduced, but only the congressional and statewide candidates, or their representatives, will be given an opportunity to speak briefly."

"Since this political rally will be held less than a week before the election," Balusek said, "the political pot should really be boiling by then. Therefore we expect a lot of interest and participation by candidates at all levels and by people from all over the area."

Kestenbaum Files Suit Against Falstaff Corp.

Dana I. Kestenbaum of Cameron has filed a $106,000 lawsuit in U.S. District Court at Waco charging the Falstaff Brewing Corp. with price-fixing and breach of contract.

Kestenbaum claims in his petition that Falstaff forced him to sell his four-county distributorship early last year through a series of unlawful practices which he said started in 1961.

Prior to the sale Kestenbaum was Falstaff distributor for Milam, Robertson, Burleson and Brazos counties.

The alleged practices cited by Kestenbaum included forced stockpiling and forced advertising expense. He further alleges Falstaff imposed arbitrary requirements on him regarding transportation, delivery and storage of beer.

"And at all times Falstaff fixed the price at which plaintiff sold beer to retail outlets," Kestenbaum's petition states.

Price-fixing is a violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

Kestenbaum became a co-distributor of Falstaff beer with his father in 1950. His father, Sam Kestenbaum, received the distributorship in 1934.

Three Arrested For Breakins

Sheriff Carl Black arrested one young man and two minors in connection with recent breakins at the Milano and Lexington schools and a filling station in Milano.

Frank Dreher, 19, of Rockdale was charged in Justice of the Peace Jess Brock's court with breaking and entering, and was released on $1,000 bond. The two minors' cases will be heard in juvenile court.

In The First Place...

Becoming involved, both Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts in the Milam area will join a one-day litter clean-up drive April 29.

More than 200 Scouts and adult leaders will comb streets of Tejas District communities for litter, to be joined in the effort by Girl Scouts.

To the point, Homer Bower, of Rockdale, acting chairman of the District, said "people are the villains in the litter problem and only by getting their attention can you enlist them in making a personal contribution toward litter prevention."

A Reuter story datelined Bonn, Germany, described one solution to litter disposal, as big a problem as gathering up the stuff.

Outside Gelsenkirchen, a man-made mountain of millions of tons of rubbish is being created. About 20 years from now, the then 250-foot rubbish mountain will be covered with rocks and earth and converted to a rural retreat.

That is one solution. Texas laws require burying refuse daily with earth overburden.

Either way, the problem is being attacked. The Scout movement, as large as it is, can set an example for the rest of us while instilling the practice of avoiding littering the landscape.

April 29 is a good date to remember. We'll see a lot of uniformed youngsters gathering up this stuff. And maybe it will dawn on us that they are doing a real service, but might be doing other more constructive things if we didn't throw this stuff out in the first place.

Another Project...

Beside other announced new construction, an expansion of Colonial Nursing Home is yet another new project here.

It is a new wing, adding to the size of the present structure.

And so the construction phase of modern Cameron reaches just about every neighborhood in the community, in almost every phase of life, in about the same close span of development as the downtown.

Drive around. There are projects underway in every part of town.

Indirect Nepotism Out

By Bill Boykin

AUSTIN

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin jarred legislators with an opinion that they are prohibited from hiring not only their own relatives but those of other lawmakers.

The opinion, requested by new House Speaker Rayford Price, thus declared illegal a long - standing practice which, only within the last few weeks, has attracted widespread critical attention.

Meanwhile, State Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford, whose family hiring practices and son-and-daughter job swapping with another legislator triggered a threatened investigation, said he may resign.

More than 40 legislators freely admit relatives were on the state payroll (usually in the Senate for House members' kinfolks and in the House for the Senate kin) during the last five years. Many of the cases involved nothing more than legislators' children working as pages, but combined salaries of the improperly-hired totalled more than $120,000 since 1967.

Martin said an article of the penal code forbids a member of one house of the legislature from hiring a relative (within restricted degrees by both blood and marriage) of a member of either house when the employee is paid from public funds.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes issued prompt orders that any Senate employee related to a legislator will be dropped from the payroll immediately.

House Speaker Rayford Price said he also plans full cooperation.

With one state representative indicted for allegedly using state postage stamps to buy a pickup truck and another known to have leased furniture for his state office from his own firm, the House Administration committee also proposed new limitations on lawmaker's expense accounts.

NO NEW TAXES

Gov. Preston Smith, in a statewide campaign speech via television, threatened to veto any tax bill passed by the legislature in special session this summer.

"I will present a budget that will require no new taxes, and I will use every available authority of the governor's office to insure that such a budget is enacted by the Legislature," said Smith.

Smith claimed he is the only candidate for governor who "can and will insure that taxes will not be higher in 1973."

Financial observers are waiting to see how the governor is going to shave the 1973 budget by an estimated $150 million to avoid another tax bill. He may rely on increased federal revenue-sharing or an increasingly-improved revenue picture.

REVENUE-SHARING AIDS CITIES, COUNTIES

A federal revenue-sharing bill approved by the U. S. House Ways and Means Committee last week would provide $202 million a year to Texas cities and counties.

Allocation of the funds would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1972, if the bill becomes law.

Enthusiasm of some city officials for the revenue-sharing plan was dampened by an apparent proviso that states participating would have to adopt state income taxes or receive a lesser amount than those which do levy taxes on income.

DROUGHT GETTING WORSE

A Texas climatologist reported spring drought conditions are getting worse over most of Texas.

Agriculture Commissioner John White said the drought already has cost agricultural producers hundreds of thousands of dollars.

There was little rain anywhere except in North Central Texas.

Climatologist Robert Orton said there is a moderate drought in the High Plains, North Central Texas, East Texas, Trans-Pecos, and the Edwards Plateau.

The Low Plains and the Upper Coast still are listed in a state of mild drought.

South Central Texas, Southern Texas and the Lower Rio Grande Valley have not entered the mild drought category.

ALLOWABLE STAYS UP

The Texas oil production allowable for May will stay at 100 per cent due to increasing demands.

A Railroad Commission order last week retained the April maximum after major buyers of crude asked for an increase in output of 83,312 barrels a day or a total for next month of more tham 3.6 million barrels.

Ten of the 16 big buyers requested the same amount as April. Five asked an increase, and only one said less oil is needed.

The April 100 per cent figure was the first wide-open allowable since 1948.

Careful study will be continued to prevent waste, Commission Chairman Byron Tunnell said.

NEW DEADLINE FIXED

April 30 is a new tax deadline for about 72,000 Texas employers.

Wage reports must be filed by then with Texas Employment Commission for purposes of unemployment taxes during the first quarter of 1972.

Employers have been notified by mail and sent forms and instructions.

Reports must include wages paid and names of employees, along with taxes due. Employers brought under coverage of the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act are mainly those who have one to four employees. New employers receive a tax rate of one per cent, which may scale downward after two years depending on unemployment experience. Some non-profit charitable and educational organizations are subject only if they have four or more workers.

Greek Monuments Suffer From Restoration Work

By Neocosmos Tzallas
Reuter Correspondent

ATHENS

Restoration work on some of Greece's priceless ancient monuments may be doing more harm than good, according to Athens University Professor Theodore Skoulikides.

In a new book, "Applied Electrochemistry," the professor warns that the use of iron and cement to restore ancient monuments may do them irreparable damage.

The ill effects caused by such restoration work here on the Parthenon about 50 years ago now consituted an immediate danger, he believes. The use of iron clamps and tenons, as well as cement, as basic building materials had been disastrous, he says.

The iron clamps have begun to oxidize, breaking off new marble used in the restoration of the original marble. This, in turn, breaks off a piece of the old marble causing cracks in the rest.

The Parthenon, built at the height of Athenian power in the fifth cnetury B.C. as a temple dedicated to goddess Pallas Athene, has survivied inumerable wars and invasions.

But in recent years, archaeologists and other experts said that air pollution, bad restoration and millions of visitors pose a growing threat to the monuments.

Skoulikides says ancient Greeks used rods of iron soldered with lead to prevent oxidization.

He suggests the use of stainless steel and other modern material to replace the iron clamps and tenons.

He also says that despite previous warnings by experts and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), the authorities had not taken the necessary measures to replace the iron clamps which are causing the damage.

The professor says the same problems occur with the use of cement. The cement is reinforced with iron and this also expands causing the marble to splinter and break off.

In a 24-page study last year, UNESCO suggested the removal of ancient marble statuary to enable it to survive the ravages of 20th century pollution.

It said that those which can be dismantled should be moved to the Acropolis Museum as as soon as possible and replaced with replicas "until science discovers a chemical process or other procedure for the protection and conservation of marble."

The study emphasized the damage caused by the constant movement of visitors -- over one million a year -- on the foundation of the monuments, the vibrations from earthquakes and jet airliners and general weather variations.

The study also recommended a thorough examination of the ill-effects of restoration, including the copious use of iron and cement as basic materials.

CORRECTION. . . .

An editorial in The Herald of April 20 incorrectly noted a figure of 25 percent in connection with remarks on Rockdale School District needs to increase local tax revenue. The 25 percent figure is of "market value" rather than a "25 percent increase in valuations, not just across the board, but in appraisal equalization." One official said RISD is in need of raising $93,265 additional local tax revenue for 1972-73. This figure would be raised, in part, by equalizing land values.

Orchids Grown By New System

By Lionel Tsai
Reuter Correspondent

TAIPEI

In an air - conditioned laboratory on a mountain overlooking Taipei, Taiwans "King of Orchids" directs a white-robed team of female technicians in growing the exotic flowers.

Lin Jung Jsien, a 65-year-old engineer turned horticulturist, now has a million orchids in his garden which he calls "White Cloud Villa" on the summit of Mount Yanming.

He is extremely proud of the title of "King of Orchids" -- an honor which he would not have imaged for himself 10 years ago.

Back in 1961, Lin, then a dealer in cosmetics, started growing orchids in his Tokyo home as a hobby. To improve his planting techniques, he bought books and studied horticulture on his own.

Three years later, he acquired a keen interest in a process developed by a Frenchman, Dr. Georges Morel, whereby orchid ceels are incubated in flasks, and decided to start his own research.

In this process plant cells, nurtured by a chemical compound, evolve into miscroscopic plants known as mericlones.

After about three months, the mericlones are transplanted to flower pots. Then, depending on the type of orchid, the plants will flower in anything from three to five years.

The cells originate from what is known as the meristem tissue at the tip of the bud. Any number of plants can be grown from this section.

He cultivates an average of [illegible] plants in each flask.

France Draws Master Plan For Rhone River Waterway

By David White
Reuter Correspondent

PARIS

Twenty years ago the Rhone was classed among Europe's unnavigable rivers. Today it is set to become part of the continent's greatest waterway.

A 195 million dollar scheme plans to connect the south-flowing Rhone and the north-flowing Rhine to form one great waterway from the North Sea to the Mediterranean.

Rising in the Swiss Alps, the Rhome runs 500 miles to its delta in the Mediterranean, while its northern tributary, the Saone, reaches back towards the industrial Rhineland.

The combined Rhone-Saone-Rhine valley forms a natural north-south axis in Europe.

A master plan for the whole of southeast France was drawn up five years ago. Taking in the regions around the Rhone Valley, from Lyons in the north to Nice in the south and stretching to the Eastern Pyrenees, the area -- christened the Grand Delta -- was to provide a counterbalance to the economic concentrations of northern Europe.

Between 1954 and 1968 the population of the delta rose 25 per cent as against 16 per cent for the whole of the country. The region, covering 43,000 square miles boasted flourishing food, chemical and metallurgical industries.

The Compagnie Nationale du Rhone had been working on opening up the river and harnessing its power since the 1930s.

The new plans sought to alter the economic geography of the area in two major ways -- by building a huge industrial port in the Bay of Fos, next to the main estuary, and by linking the Rhone with the Rhine.

Construction at Fos on the Mediterranean is already well advanced. The first steel - works should start production in 1974, and plans for a new refinery and extensive petro-chemical installations are under way.

Three tanker berths can already accommodate vessels of up to 300,000 tons, and space is planned for super tankers of up to one million tons. The port's administrwtors estimate it will create 160,000 new jobs by 1983.

To the west of Fos, from the camargue -- the wild, marshland of the delta -- to the Spanish border will come the biggest tourist operation ever carried out in France -- tripling existing facilities to prepare for a million-strong invasion.

The all-embracing plan also includes power and irrigation schemes, agriculture and forestry development, new canals and motorways and a new international airport at Lyon-Satolas.

What remains now is to sell the idea -- to French and foreign industries and to the 10 million people who already live in the area.

A huge publicity drive is being arranged for June this year, with congresses, debates and visits to demonstrate the economic potential of the Rhone delta.

It already has some takers. A British chemical group will be building at Fos, and the Russians are taking a token share in the steelworks there.

But some local authorities have shown themselves lukewarm about the new regional grouping.

With the firm economic growth of orthern Italy and new inflows of capital into Spain's Catalonia Province, the Rhone will complete a Mediterranean line-up. This is the grand plan, maintaining the traditional trade links with Africa and the Middle East, but now striking northwards into the industrial heartland of Europe.

By 1976, tug convoys should be able to navigate without interruption from Port-Saint-Louisi-du-Rhone on the Mediterranean to the Saone at Lyons. And in 10 years time, it is hoped, vessels of up to 3,000 tons will be making their way from Marseilles.

NervousBreakdownsTake Toll Of Londonderry Folks

By Richard Norsworthy
Reuter Correspondent

LONDONDERRY

Behind the barricades of Londonderry, more people collapse from nervous breakdowns than fall from a bomb or a bullet.

Most of the Casualties in the war between the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) and the British troops are the victims of worry and fear. The heavy tension is taking an expanding toll on the health of the 65,000 men, women and children in Northern Ireland's second largest city where bomb blasts and gun battles are almost daily occurences.

Ironically, it is the non-combatants whose health suffers most from the warfare between the militant provisional IRA and the British troops.

"Indeed," said Dr. Donal MacDermott, who has a practice in the Roman Catholic Bogside and Creggan Estate, "The exhilaration of the struggle helps the active fighters stay healthy."

It is the families of the fighters and people who live or work in the target areas who suffer most from nervous disorders.

The streets of Eastman Gardens and Demean Terrace look down across a field onto the lone army installation in the Bogside, which is controlled by the provisional IRA. From behind the row of houses on these two streets, gunmen take frequent shots at the sand-bagged lookout posts. The return fire from the soldiers often damages the houses and frightens the residents.

Nearly every house along the way has at least one bullet hole in or around it. "Ive never had nervous trouble before in my life," said one father of nine. "But last month I had to have an emergency operation for stomach ulcers."

He said he knew of another friend who died on the operating table during such an operation.

Mothers along the street say their children are suffering and some are afraid to go to school in case they should get caught in crossfire between IRA gunmen and British troops.

Dr. Macdermott says many children suffer from nightmares and bed-wetting.

But others, the ones who daily attack British armored vehicles with rocks and sometimes fire bombs, are, like their elder counterparts unlikely to be affected. "They get the tension out of their systems by attacking the troops," says the doctor.

Stoning the troops and collecting the rubber bullets fired in return has become a game with gangs of youngsters, some of them nine or 10 years old.

"The children don't play cowboys and indians anymore," said one mother "It's the provos (IRA Provisionals) against the British."

Other children are not so lucky and cannot adjust to growing up in the armed camp atmosphere of the Bogside or the fortress-like Creggan Estate above it.

One mother admitted to occasionally giving her young son one of her own tranquilizers. "I have to do it," she says. "He's becoming a nervous wreck."

Dr. MacDermott says the use of tranquilizers in Londonderry has increased tremendously since the present troubles began to escalate in 1969.

The atmosphere of bombing, shooting, killing and the constant threat of death has drastically increased the demand for pills.

"The constant tension prevents many people from sleeping at night," says Dr. MacDermott. "But they are afraid to take sleeping tablets for fear of not being alert if trouble breaks out at night."

Few households appear to have escaped the tension in this atmosphere. Parents tell of one or more members of their families who have nightmares and frequently wake up screaming. Others tell of stomach trouble, skin trouble, headaches and a host of other complaints.

The Protestants in Londonderry, one of the few places in the province where they are in the minority, suffer as well. "The Protestants live in fear of the Catholics and the Catholics fear a Protestant backlash," said Dr. MucDermott.

"And the result of these troubles will be with many of them for a long time to come."

Nautical Look Sparks Spring Fashion Scene

COLLEGE STATION

Ship ahoy, mates! The nautical look in clothing has landed on the spring and summer fashion scene.

Kay Elmore, clothing specialist at Texas A&M University, said military fashions will be popular this spring.

"Sailor's middies, yachtman's jackets and admiral's coats give a military mood to fashions that flatter anyone," she claimed.

Periscope in on necklines that flatter the figure.

"Deep 'V' necklines in blazers and dresses slenderize the figure," she said. "Middy collars squared off in front add width to the top."

Braids, emblems and buttons with nautical influence act as attentiongetters.

"Place them in an area most flattering to your own figure," Miss Elmore suggested. Braid at the neckline draws the eye to that part of the body. An emblem appliqued to the upper sleeve will emphasize the apparent size of the arm.

The specialist said that accent points should be chosen carefully. Even the spacing between buttons on a double - breasted nautical jacket affects the appearance of body size. The further the distance between the two rows of buttons, the wider the appearance.

"There's a proportion right for you," she said. "Just experiment until you find it."

Pants will still be very much a part of fashion this spring. Pant legs flare more than ever with the flare beginning at the thigh and ending long at the cuff.

"Board ship with the colors red, white and blue, but don't be afraid of nautical designs in colors that have been to sea before," Miss Elmore said.

It's a whole new feeling of sea-shapes this spring and summer.

You'll never have to scrape and scour those spill-overs again . . . because a modern, self-cleaning electric range does it automatically! You just slip surface unit drip-pans in the oven, set the dial and forget the mess. Your electric oven whisks away all the grime and baked-on grease from walls, shelves and pans. And the cooking elements clean themselves on high heat.

Dependable, economical electricity makes cooking a real pleasure, too, because there are so many special work-saving features available on electric ranges. Like cook-and-hold automatic controls that keep the roast warm and moist till serving time. An instant hot water tap. And even automatic stirrers that leave your hands free for other jobs while the gravy's cooking.

TP&L suggests that you let your electric appliance dealer show you a modern, self-cleaning electric range today . . . and bake the family's favorite pie tonight!

The Informed Consumer

Some two years ago congressional hearings helped spotlight abuses in connection with sweepstakes prizes offered but never awarded in mail offerings.

Last year the Federal Trade Commission secured agreements from some of the large promoters in which the companies agreed to award all offered prizes. Several other companies voluntarily adopted the same policy. Still my office continues to receive complaints concerning fake puzzle contests.

Some of these complaints center around contests which are "free" but some involve contests in which it costs to participate. A typical example of the latter type is the puzzle in which a contestant is asked to identify word and picture clues such as "The opposite of white is————."

"Five plus three equals————." And "The moon comes out at————."

Using the first letter of each of the above words the entrant would then have to spell out and select the correct first name of a famous American whose picture would be shown. There might be clues given such as "He helped write the Declaration of Independence" - "He flew a kite in a storm with a key tied to the tail and discovered electricity." You would have to fill in the first name ———with the last name of Franklin being given. Possible choices for names as shown in an accompanying list might be - Ben - Ted - Ike - Pat - and Max. It would be very difficult for even a fifth grade child to fail to solve a puzzle as simple as this one.

After the entrant sends in his solution, he is informed that he is officially tied for first place in the contest. All persons who have sent in the correct solutions are notified that there will be a series of tie-breakers which they must solve to be eligible for a prize but if the contestant wants to qualify for an even larger prize, they are asked to enclose $2 to $5 for each tie-breaker.

The scheme is that while the initial puzzle and most of the early tie-breakers are ridiculously easy, as you get to the end of the tie-breakers, the puzzles become so difficult that even an extraordinary person would have only a faint chance of coming up with the correct solution.

Recently a man who operated a puzzle contest out of Palm Beach, Florida, entered a plea of guilty in Federal Court to twenty - eight counts of mail fraud and one count for using a fictitious name. This individual utilized mail and magazine advertisements to attract puzzle enthusiasts throughout the United States. Contestants paid entry fees from $2 to $5 for sets of the puzzle. The "winners" of one series would be required to enter tie-breakers "to be eligible for further" fees and promises of larger prizes."

The facts were that, while some prize winners received money, others were not even informed they had won. Investigators found that some of the larger prizes went to people who had not even entered the contest. It was reported that four winner's checks of $30,000.00 went to friends and relatives of a woman friend of the promoter's.

COUNTY NEWS

Young Men Must Register

Colonel Melvin N. Glantz State Director of Selective Service for Texas, has reminded young men of their requirement under Federal Law to register with Selective Service.

Young men in Milam County may register at these places:

The local draft board in Cameron; John D. Yoakum in Milano; Roy L. Allen in Rockdale; Norman Clement in Thorndale; Floyd W. Stark in Buckholts; Mrs. Minta Miller, principal's office, Yoe High School and Henry J. Litzman Jr. at the Cameron post office.

Some young men may believe that because future military manpower requirements may be met by volunteers that the requirement to register is past; however, the Law does require registration by all native born young men and all resident - aliens within 30 days after the young man reaches age 18.

If a young man fails to register with Selective Service, he is subject to a fine or imprisonment, or both, under provisions of the Military Selective Service Act.

If a young man has allowed more than 30 days to pass following his 18th birthday and has not yet registered, he should register immediately to avoid the penalty of the Law.

Complete registration information is available at each local draft board.

According to the indictment returned in the court of Federal District Judge Jack Roberts, King is charged with preparing thirty false income tax returns for clients during the calendar years 1967, 1968 and 1969.

The indictment returned by the Grand Jury charges that King falsified income tax returns by claiming fictitious farm losses and by overstating farm losses and itemized deductions such as contributions, interest, and medical deductions on the returns prepared by him.

R. L. Phinney, District Director of Internal Revenue stated that a person convicted of preparing false income tax returns could be sentenced to three years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine, or both, for each such return prepared and filed with the Internal Revenue Service.

Bass Battles P&W Diver

Don't ask George Henderson if the bass are biting.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist from Del Rio got some first-hand experience in the matter last spring during an underwater survey of bass nesting in Amistad Reservoir.

A three-pound bass guarding a nest took exception to Henderson's close-range observation techniques and grabbed his hand bulldog fashion, twisting vigorously.

"I jerked my hand away and didn't think much about it," said Henderson, "but when I went to the surface I noticed my hand was bleeding."

Scientific data don't always measure a big bass' short temper, Henderson says.

Sharp- Tracy- F'ship

Friendship paid final tribute to Henry McCormick and Ure Satterwhite, whose lives truly contributed towards the name of their community, Friendship.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Schwartz, Mrs. Mabel Charles and Mr. and Mrs. Son Modesette attended the Modesette and Barber reunion in Brenham which was held at the Don Notting Ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Hanke gave a barbecue with Carl Hanke as the guest of honor, on his birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Guillote of Austin, the Earnest Hankes of Buckholts, the Robert Mundines of Lexington, the Lester Hanke family of Copperas Cove and the Carl Hankes all enjoyed the day with Tim and Jan in Elgin.

Mrs. J. D. Pope drove Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gilleland to Taylor where Mr. Gilleland had a check up. He is recovering very well after his serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roesler spent Saturday in Cameron with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kurtz and Dorthy.

Sunday, they went to see Mrs. Roesler's mother, Mrs. Ben Kratzz in Rockdale.

Wednesday, they attended the funeral of Mr. Roesler's uncle, Mr. Arnold Roesler, which was held in Brenham.

Billy Roesler is back in California at the army base after having a month's vacation on his return from Viet Nam.

We spent the weekend camping at Stillhouse Hollow Dam. Sue's friend, Miss Sally Fronek went with us. The girls sunburned so badly they had to miss school. Well, they couldn't have been the only ones, as the camping grounds and the beach was filled with hundreds out to enjoy the fishing, swimming, eating out and camping.

SU Teachers Evaluate Patterson, Kubiak

GEORGETOWN

A group of teachers from Southwestern University in Georgetown have released an evaluation of the needs of Legislative District 36 and the qualifications of the announced candidates.

The faculty members included Miss Mary Elizabeth Fox, Dr. Jack Harris, Dr. Wendell Osborn, and Dr. Fred Hilgeman. District 36 covers the counties of Falls, Milam and Williamson and includes the cities of Georgetown, Taylor, Rockdale, Cameron and Marlin. The text of the group evaluation follows:

QUOTE: The recent conspiracy convictions of top state officials brought fresh air to Texas government, and it's time for the residents of District 36 to decide how we can best continue to make our voices heard in the legislature. Of immediate concern is the choice we must make on May 6 between Representatives Charles Patterson and Dan Kubiak.

"Two standards are of help in making this choice -- ongoing committment to honest government, and representation of the true interests of the majority of our district. While both candidates claim allegiance to these measures, a frank look at the record shows a distinction between the two men.

"Mr. Patterson was one of a few legislators who voted against the Sharpstown banking bills and one of the thirty who demanded an investigation of the scandal on March 15. Mr. Kubiak's new-found calls for reform strike us as an effort to join someone else's bandwagon, because the plain fact is that he voted for the banking bills and joined with the Mutscher team in rejecting the plea for an investigation.

"It would seem, then, that Mr. Patterson is the candidate who voted for us when it counted. That may be why Patterson was given the "Straight - Shooter Award" by his colleague, Representative Jake Johnson of San Antonio, during the last legislative session.

"It is sometimes said that representing us in the legislature is only a part-time job. Certainly Mr. Kubiak's part-time philosophy must account in some way for his being able to make more than $150,000 in outside money while serving for two years in the House.

On the other hand, Rep. Patterson's financial statement reveals that the greater part of his income is from his $400 per month legislative salary. Yet, in order to remain near the legislature, Mr. Patterson bears the expense of a small house in Austin in addition to his Taylor residence. We simply believe District 36 needs that kind of full-time representative.

"The primary task of a legislator is reflecting the views of the local citizens he represents. While Mr. Kubiak stated publicly that he would never support a sales tax, he voted for the Parker Amendment which called for the greatest increase in the sales tax in Texas history. Mr. Patterson opposed that tax. Mr. Kubiak prides himself on his straight AFL-CIO voting record, but we feel Representative Patterson's record of considering each bill on its merits better reflects the sense of fair play of District 36.

"This concern is why Mr. Patterson sided with the farmers in our district in opposing the secretive Union Organization Bill sought by the Farm Workers Union. Mr. Kubiak supported this effort to unionize farm labor. Similarly, Mr. Patterson voted against the minimum wage bill which he felt would have serious effects on the small, independent businesses and agricultural interests in our district. Again, Mr. Kubiak voted for this legislation.

"As a former coach and teacher, Mr. Kubiak might have been expected to appreciate the problems of our public school teachers; but in 1971 he voted for the transfer of funds from the Teacher Retirement Fund to cover the spiraling costs of public welfare payments. Believing that a way could be found to solve the welfare crisis without costing our public school teachers tousands of dollars in accrued interest, Mr. Patterson opposed the fund transfer bill.

"The farmers and ranchers of our district are justifiably upset over the passage of the controversial trailer brake bill. Representatives Patterson and Kubiak both worked against this legislation. But the measure is now the law, and one is forced to wonder about Mr. Kubiak's views on law and order when he has openly and repeatedly advised his constitutents to ignore the law's requirements. What penalties would face someone who followed Mr. Kubiak's advice and became involved in a traffic accident? No one is above the law; and, until unfair measures can be changed, it is a mark of irresponsibility to advise evading them.

Kubiak Says Evaluation 'Inaccurate, Distortion'

ROCKDALE

State Rep. Dan Kubiak, of Rockdale, assailed the article released last week by four faculty members of Southwestern University as totally inaccurate and a distortion of the truth.

Rep. Kubiak, when contacted, stated, QUOTE: "I only wish I had made $150,000 in outside money, but my individual income tax return for 1969 shows that I made $11,764.80. In 1970 I made $14,091.28 and in 1971 my net income was $10,500. This is $113,643.92 short of what the four professors have stated and if their evaluation of the other issues are as inaccurate as this one then I would challenge the validity of any portion of this article.

"In calling Dr. Jack Harris Sunday morning I found that he did not know anything about the article or about any of the contents and that no official meeting had been held. In contacting Dr. Fred Higleman, he stated that there was some type of informal meeting held with a couple of faculty members over coffee within the last three weeks. The article stated that they had met Saturday, which was totally inaccurate. The faculty members assailed me for my political philosophy, which is as American as it can be, which is to provide a living for me, my wife, and my family. No Legislator can live on the $271 take home pay that he receives for being a Legislator and either has to depend on his own work, some outside interest, or overdraw on his expense account. I chose to provide an honest living for my family and to be honest in all of my dealings with my constituents."

"The article was a malicious, unfounded distortion of the truth and cannot even be classified as a half-truth. I have not used my job to underwrite my education as has been done by my opposition. I have a fulltime office in the district at 237 Ackerman in Rockdale and it is fully staffed and has been since I was elected in 1969."

"The report claims I voted for the banking bills, which I did, along with 95% of the rest of the House and if the professors had checked that they would have found some interesting information. Mr. Patterson was on the Banks and Banking Committee and testified at the trial in Abilene that he never read the bills and he in fact had not had a copy at the committee hearing. He did not in any way oppose these bills or challenge them in the House, and this was gross neglect on the part of any committee member."

"If these professors had been conscientious in their investigation, they would have found that I co-authored the House Investigative Resolution which was successfully passed and set up a general investigative committee which is in existence today. Mr. Patterson's "demand for investigation of the scandal on March 15, 1971" was in violation of House rules, gained 30 votes, and to this date has not passed. Nothing has ever come of that resolution."

"I further challenge these faculty members, if they are responsible people, and I hope they are, to retract their statements for being inaccurate and I have today submitted my individual income tax return to show that they overstated my income by $113,643.92." END OF QUOTE

Women To 'Walk For Watson'

WACO

A "Woman's Walk for Watson" will be getting underway Monday, April 24, on behalf of the candidacy of State Senator Murray Watson, now running for U. S. Congress, 11th District.

They will be in Cameron on the 29th.

Mrs. Millie Kennedy, coordinator, stated that there will be approximately 50 women participating in the week-long activities. The women will travel by bus and car caravans to various towns throughout the Congressional District. They will meet other Watson supporters in each area to help with the campaigning.

Watson Says He Supports Equal Rights

State Senator Murray Watson, a candidate for Congress, 11th Congressional District spoke to the spring luncheon meeting of the Mart Federated Women's Club April 12. Senator Watson spoke on the "Woman's Role in Community Affairs Today."

Senator Watson used the occasion to take issue with his opponent's voting record regarding women's rights. He pointed out that in the regular session of the legislature he co-sponsored the bill which provided equal rights for women in Texas. In addition he said, "After the women's rights amendment was passed by the Congress, I co-sponsored the Senate resolution ratifying that constitutional amendment."

"My opponent, on the other hand, voted against the amendment and was the only member of the Texas delegation in Washington to do so."

Robnett Critical Of James Record Of Communication

HOUSTON

State Treasurer candidate Nolan Robnett today was critical of incumbent Jesse James' record of communication with the public and the press. Robnett spoke to a group of Houston stockbrokers.

"During his 30 years in office, information about such a vital matter of concern to the public as the management of State tax dollars has been difficult, almost impossible, to obtain. During this time James has been building a political empire - investing State funds in several large State banks with close ties to James, (with great amounts in open checking accounts not drawing interest revenue), pour-millions in State funds into Sharpstown State Bank while financing personal business transactions through that bank (which may be a conflict of interest), and through poor money management practices has allowed an unconstitutional State deficit as large as $260,000,000 to plague the State budget.

"That's a record Texas voters surely cannot be proud of. With the incumbent being named after the infamous outlaw, it would almost be funny if it were not such a serious problem involving millions in State tax dollars. With this kind of record, I think it is obvious the only qualification Jesse James has ever had for the office of State Treasurer has been his novelty name. It's no longer funny to Texas voters, for James is hitting them in their pocketbooks.

"Texas voters want a qualified candidate for State Treasurer, one who can reform the operations of the State Treasury, help save imposition of unnecessary State tax dollars, and who will end political favoritism and influence peddling in an office that deals with millions of their hard-earned State tax dollars. I want to offer my abilities in the fields of investment, money management, and program development to Texas voters if they truly wish to end an era of political chicanery in the State Treasury, with political scandals such as Sharpstown and antiquated money management practices that lead to massive red-ink deficits in the State Budget."

Robnett, 31, is an investment and personnel management specialist from Austin who recently helped pioneer and develop the State Program on Drug Abuse.

Draft Dodgers Should Pay Penalty, Says Cong. Poage

"There is an insistent demand from some quarters that the United States should in some way waive or forget all of its laws relating to military service and allow those who have violated these laws, and those who fled the country to avoid compliance with the laws, to return without any penalty," Cong. W. R. Poage said in his newsletter this week.

"The argument is that we no longer call up young men in the numbers which we once did, and that we should forget all about the fact that these draft evaders refused to serve our country when their services were needed," he continued.

Poage said this would be a "callous repudiation of the sacrifices made by the overwhelming majority who did serve their country."

He said the men are entitled to a fair trial but they should be tried "just like anyone else who has violated our laws." They should pay the penalty if they are found guilty, he said.

Poage said the matter is "one of justice to the men who served and of the enforcement of all of our laws."

"When individuals are allowed to decide for themselves what laws they consider to be unfair and to violate those laws without penalty, we simply have no law," he added.

Wood Makes Foundation

An FHA notice sent to all HUD-FHA offices endorses the new all-weather wood foundation system, and lists some advantages.

The federal housing agency noted the system saves on erection time and materials, has "built-in" structural resilience against soil pressures, makes below-grade living areas more comfortable, and reduces building delays because it can be installed in sub-freezing weather.

Wood materials must be pressure-treated, inspected, approved and marked as specified, and then they become a permanently protected support comparable to other systems, the FHA states.

An earlier study found the wood system cost $280 less than a typical block system and took one-third the time to install. Some 100 of the foundations have been installed, directly on soil and gravel.

DOORS OF YOE

By Marilyn Hauk

There comes a time in every person's life when they recess into a second childhood. (Some never leave the first) Whatever the case may be Mike Trdy and Joseph Jistel enjoyed a peppy game of pattycake in Latin.

The First Baptist observed Youth Night Thursday night and had a fellowship afterward. The object of one of the games was to let a blindfolded person feed another blindfolded person a piece of cream pie. Donna Logan, I don't know how much of it went down, but a lot of it was spread from ear to ear.

The Yoe High Junior Class is saving pimento jars for decoration of the Junior-Senior Banquet. If you have any extra one you can dispose of them by dropping them by the Yoe High Office.

Some of Yoe High's students may look a little strained. Pre-registration occurred this week.

The Future Teachers of America took part in a student teaching program this week. Some experienced the most horrible feeling in the world-- having the supervising teacher leave the room for a moment. Fortunately no one threw anything and no heads were broken.

Okinawa Return Has Its Problems

By Geoffrey Murray
Reuter Correspondent

TOKYO

The United States will liquidate its last holding of Japanese territory from World War Two in May with the return of Okinawa and other islands of the Ryukyu group.

It cost the Americans almost 50,000 military dead and wounded to capture Okinawa in 93 days of bitter fighting in the final days of the war. The Japanese and Okinawans lost well over 200,000 civilian and military dead.

While the changeover this time should be accomplished without any shooting, the May 15 reversion ceremony is not expected to pass without some trouble.

Many islanders, backed by opposition political parties in the Japanese parliament, are bitterly opposed to the continued presence after reversion of major U. S. military bases.

The Americans will be keeping some of Okinawa's best real estate for the bases they have steadily built up since occupying the island.

Many Okinawans had hoped their homeland would finally be demilitarized after a quarter of a century in the frontline -- it is within easy striking distance of China, Taiwan and the Korean peninsula.

Now they feel betrayed that not only are the Americans staying, but an estimated 6,000 Japanese troops are also going to move in to assume responsibility for local defense.

There have been violent demonstrations on both points in Okinawa over the past year and officials anticipate anti-Americanism is going to get worse.

Calendar Of Texas Events Has Wide Popularity

AUSTIN

Nearly 950 happenings crowd the Calendar of Texas Events from April 1 through September 30. The semiannual calendar, produced by the Texas Highway Department, is prepared from information furnished by chambers of commerce and community groups.

The listings encompass old and new events ranging from the 104th Washington County Fair (Brenham) to the First Annual Howdy-Roo Festival (Marble Falls) and the First Annual Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair (Kerrville).

According to Highway Department tourist bureau personnel, even the smallest of happenings interest tourists from other areas. The bureaus reported that many of the 1,365,000 motorists who stopped for services last year, specifically requested event information.

Requests for the Texas events calendar also come from travel writers and editors of such prestigious publications as the N.Y. Times, Christian Science Monitor, Saturday Review, Woman's Day Magazine, and more than 30 others. Several TV producers have recently requested the calendar for planning proposed series.

In the latest calendar some intriguing happenings appear for the first time: First Statewide Folklife Festival at the Institute of Texan Cultures (San Antonio); Annual Slingshot Championships (Carrizo Springs); State Frog-Jumping Contest (Refugio), and Spring-Ho festival (Lampasas).

Among traditional and long-standing events are the 77th Fiesta San Antonio, 98th Wise County Old Settlers' Reunion (Decatur), 84th Gillespie County Fair (Fredericksburg), and the 82nd Annual Maifest (Brenham).

Events recently started and rapidly arousing national interest are the Black-Eyed Pea Jamboree (Athens) international Armadillo nfab & Exposition (Victoria Rendezvous Lunar Festiva, NASA area near Houston), and the Cajun Festifal & Texas Championship Crawfish Races (Port Arthur).
